On the 23rd of January 2009, the Cabinet of Ministers approved the National Strategy on Drugs 2009 -2016, a document that is the last link – and in my opinion also one of the most important – in a now long history that began in July 1985, when, thanks to a pact among all the political forces, never written but always respected, the first sectorial conference put the National Plan on Drugs into action.

That pact was capable of generating a solid and consistent response to deal with a situation that a coordinated intervention demanded of all Public Administrations, with the collaboration of the non-governmental organizations, not only in the area of Public Health and safety but, above all and in that which mattered most, in the Health Care and social attention that those affected by the heroin epidemic required.

In the twenty five years that have passed since that first National Plan on Drugs, the Spanish people have been capable, all together, of setting the necessary infrastructures into motion for all people who suffer from problems related to drug use to receive the necessary attention; We have made important efforts to prevent the use of this type of substance.

We can feel legitimately proud of that which we have achieved up till the moment but, for this same reason, we have to continue to advance, to be able to offer an adequate response to the drug phenomena that at present appears before us in all its complexity.

With the passing of time great and profound changes have occurred not only in the drug use scenarios but also in the profiles of the users and the social perception of the phenomena, and today we find ourselves placed in front of a very different reality, which nevertheless continues to demand from us all efforts to face it.

The National Strategy on Drugs 2009 – 2016 that is the fruit of the collective reflection of the State Administrations and the Autonomous Communities and Cities, of the social Agents and of the Experts confronting the dimensions and forms that the drug phenomena in Spain today presents, reaching consensual proposals among all the Agents on the way this phenomena should be tackled.

Stemming from these proposals, the Government Delegation for the National Plan on Drugs elaborated the first Plan of Action on Drugs 2009 -2012 that the Inter-autonomous Commission has adopted, where the actions that will be developed to reach objectives that the Strategy has marked for the year 2016 are contained.

This Plan of Action, a copy of which you have in your hands, underlines the value of the dimension of Public Health as a social component in drug politics. It means a firm bet on improving interventions and guaranteeing quality by way of the coordinated activity among all the Administrations which, at the same time, count on the indispensable collaboration of the non-governmental organizations to set in motion the measures contained therein.

But in spite of the many and pertinent actuations that the Involved Agents in the Plan de Action might have, they will be of little use if we do not manage to promote a greater social conscience or awareness of the use of different drugs on the risks to health and personal welfare of the Spanish people and the necessity of citizen implication in response to the phenomena. This is the great challenge that the Government Delegation for the National Plan on Drugs confronts today, to lead this great process that the Plan of Action has opened up to reach the fulfilment of the general objectives of our National Plan on Drugs.

As Secretary General for Social Policy and Consumer Protection I wish to send out a call to the representative organizations of society, the different social sectors and all citizens to assume, as their own also, the responsibility of involving themselves in the task which is everybody's. I ask, not only for their collaboration but also for their complicity, their personal engagement and their empathy.

Only in this way with the sum total of our forces will we be capable of launching into this new stage and manage to set into motion the best and most reasonable response to diminish the use of legal and illegal drugs, to increase the capacity and personal abilities of drug resistance, delay the initial age of first contact with drugs and reduce or limit the harm caused to the health of those people who use drugs and, in general, the undesired social and health effects related to their use.

Francisco Moza Zapatero
Secretary General for Social Policy and Consumer Protection

Introduction

The National Drug Strategy 2009- 2016 approved in agreement with the Council of Cabinet Ministers in their meeting of 23rd January 2009 indicates that, as a development and complement to the established framework two quadrennial and consecutive Plans of Action will be elaborated that will range over the entire period that it is in force.

In agreement with this and following the entry into force of the Strategy, the Government Delegation for the National Plan on Drugs promoted a process for the elaboration of the first of them for the period 2009 - 2012.

In the said process that has taken place over the first three trimesters of 2009, Administrations and social entities have collaborated, who also did so at the time of the drawing up of the Strategy; that is the Drug Plans of the Autonomous Communities and Cities, the non-governmental organizations of the sector, experts in the different fields of intervention in drug dependencies, scientific societies and diverse organisms of the State General Administration.

Their contributions, suggestions and comments have been fundamental when preparing the Plan of Action that now comes to life and was adopted by the Inter-autonomous Commission of the National Plan on Drugs in the meeting that took place on 14th October 2009.

The Plan of Action 2009-2012 has a structure similar to that in force for the European Plan of Action and shares with it an identical period of validity. In the same way it takes into account that which is established in the autonomous legislation on these matters, as well as the strategic Plans approved in the different Autonomous Communities and Cities.

However, the existing differences must be taken into account insofar as the political-administrative structure of our country with respect to others of the European Union are concerned, which implies that many of the latter are able to develop, in their strategic documents, a concretion and degree of detail that, in our case cannot be reached without invading the competences of the Autonomous Communities.

The Plan contemplates six fields of intervention in agreement with the objectives marked out in the Strategy and includes sixty eight (68) actions to develop within them. The principal weight falls on the area of reduced demand where it counts on thirty six actions which means more than the half of those of the Plan. Within this field Prevention is the privileged paragraph, with seventeen (17) actions that represent a quarter part of the total amount.

In the section of Prevention the outstanding actions are directed towards informing and making aware the different social sectors of the risks that the use of drugs can lead to, as well as the emphasis placed on everything that has anything to do with prevention in the educational and school spheres.

However, this emphasis on the reduced demand has endeavoured to give the Plan in general a balance in all fields as well as bearing in mind the latest knowledge concerning the tendencies of drug use, its methods and the profiles of the users. Therefore, and looking at that already envisaged in the Strategy, the necessity of developing programs is insisted upon, whether they are of the prevention, welfare or social incorporation character – whose efficiency is backed by scientific evidence.

In this respect, at the same time the results of the evaluation of the Drug Strategy 2000 - 2008, on which work has been carried out in parallel to the drawing up of the Plan, has been taken into account.

All in all we believe that this first Plan of Action means an important step in the development of the Strategy and is representative of all actors, - public and private - who work in the area of drug dependencies in our country. At the same time respect is shown to the competences of the Autonomous Communities and Cities, giving space to their initiatives to apply the Plan according to the reality that functions in their territories, adjusting to the actual situation of drug dependencies and adaptable for future changes of scene.

I only have gratitude for all those who have collaborated in the elaboration of the Plan for their enthusiasm and generosity, with special thanks to the Delegation team who have coordinated all this work, who have made a great effort to analyze and gather the contributions sent from so many people and sectors and giving them form so that the final text would be coherent, legible and clear.
